READ IT AND CHEAP

It's an extremely disturbing thought knowing that I can save $1.50 each issue by subscribing to your magazine. When I go to buy it at the store the Fold-In has already been done or the pages are bent and torn. Please convince my mom to buy me a year's subscription.

Andrew U'ren, Portland, OR

Drewski — You claim to love our product, and yet, you want to take money out of our pockets by subscribing at the discounted price. We know it's tempting to save a few bucks, but understand that the staff has some necessary expenses and every little bit helps. For example, Editor John Ficarra needs to landscape his summer home, Senior Editor Joe Raiola has a couple of show dogs that require a full-time grooming staff, Associate Editor Amy Vozeolas needs to finish gold-plating her SUV and Associate Editor Dave Croatto is thiiiiis close to completing his Fabergé Egg collection. Think of all those you hurt when you try to scrimp a little! —Ed.

AN INTERN FOR THE WORSE

We want to give a special shout out to our summer 2005 interns! Thanks to Carolyn Abram, Lisa Durr, Megan Ganz, John Gentile, Michael Lore, Tara Marks and Sumukh "Bob" Torgalkar. Our bathrooms have never been cleaner!

MAD CELEBRITY VISITS

We never know who is going to stop by the MAD offices. Just the other day, we were visited by Meinhardt Raabe, the coroner from The Wizard of Oz, in town to promote his book Memories of a Munchkin: An Illustrated Walk Down the Yellow Brick Road. It was a delightful afternoon, until Meinhardt (never one to break character) accidentally pronounced Production Artist Doug Thomson dead!

Meinhardt Raabe (he's the one holding the issue of MAD — duh!) and the staff of MAD.

IN A BANNER OF SPEAKING

As if the steroid scandal hadn't done enough to tarnish the reputation of Major League Baseball, during an August 14th game between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees, a fan held up a huge, less-than-inspirational banner. Amazingly, the White Sox managed to win anyway!

READER ALERT

Hey all you Fantastic 4 fans out there (both of you!) go to www.madmag.com and check out our web-exclusive spoof of the movie poster! Feel free to pass it on to friends and loved ones — because if there's one thing people love, it's forwarded e-mails! After that, you can run out and buy it in MAD Classics #3 — on sale now!

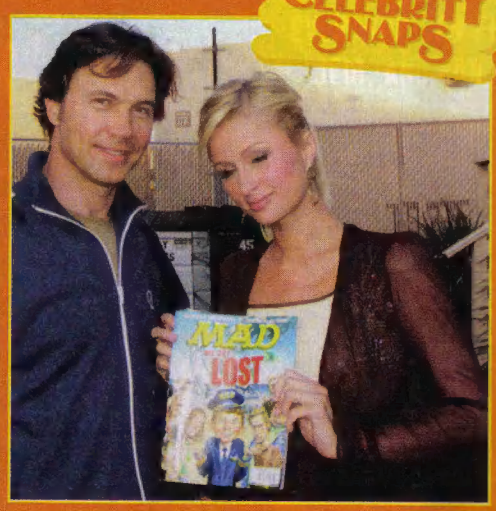
STAMP OF DISAPPROVAL

MAD fans unite! For nearly 10 years I've tried to convince the United States Postal Service to produce a stamp of Alfred E. Neuman, but to no avail. Now, as MAD approaches its 500th issue, scheduled for August 2008, it's time MAD fans everywhere, well, at least in the good ole USA, unite and bombard the USPS with letters suggesting a stamp of Alfred. Let's let them know that we need a stamp that says, "What, Me Worry" and "Cheap" under the denomination. What a collector's item! And with less and less people writing letters, they can use all the help they can get. The USPS needs three years lead time to produce a stamp, just a bit more time than needed to deliver a letter, so get moving! Send letters to: USPS, Stamp Services,1735 N. Lynn St., Suite 5013, Arlington, VA 22209-6432.

Dr. David Lubin, Tampa, FL

Lube Job — We haven't heard from you since issue #456! Where have you been? We applaud your Alfred stamp idea and urge everyone to get writing. But you raise another excellent point! People are writing fewer letters these days. Well, most people at least — catch our drift, Doc? —Ed.

MAD CELEBRITY SNAPS



Please find my Celebrity Snap with the top celebrity from your Nifty Fifty list — Paris Hilton! I've been reading MAD ever since I learned how to read and stole my older brother's MAD. Recently I caught up with Paris after her press junket for the film House of Wax.

Edward Sartori, Los Angeles, CA

Better off Ed — First of all, you get major props for getting the notoriously camera-shy Paris Hilton to pose for a photograph! But answer us this one question, what kind of model can't keep her freakin' eyes open for one lousy picture? What, was she exhausted after a long day of doing nuthin'? Regardless, you're going to get something that Paris will never have: a free three-year subscription to MAD! —Ed.

MAD GETS WARPED

MAD was a sponsor at this year's Van's Warped Tour and, for some reason, they gave us access to the bands at the August 13th show on Randall's Island, NY — which just happened to be the hottest day of the year!

We took this as the perfect opportunity to have a marathon session of MAD's 2-Question Interviews with some of the bands!

Mike Herrera, bassist for MXPX

QUESTION ONE: What's the name of your latest CD?

MIKE: Panic — P-A-N-I-C.

QUESTION TWO: I'm sorry, can you repeat that please?

MIKE: Panic.

Thank you for taking part in MAD's 2-Question Interview!

James Lynch, guitarist for Dropkick Murphys

QUESTION ONE: What's the one question every journalist asks?

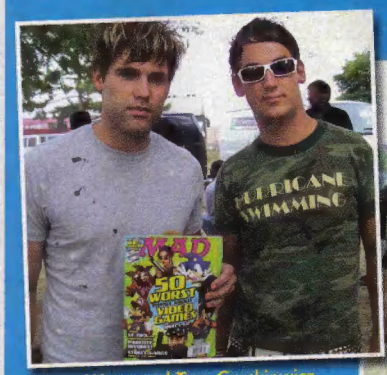
JAMES: Where did the name of the band come from?

QUESTION TWO: So aren't you glad the interview ended before we could ask it?

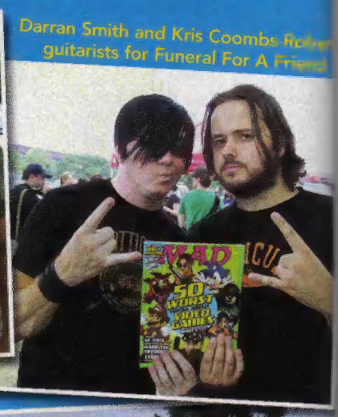
JAMES: Absolutely!

Thank you for taking part in MAD's 2-Question Interview!

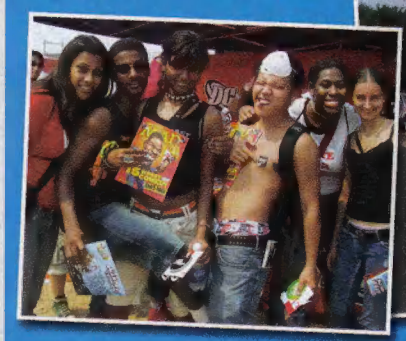
JAMES: It was the best interview I've ever done!

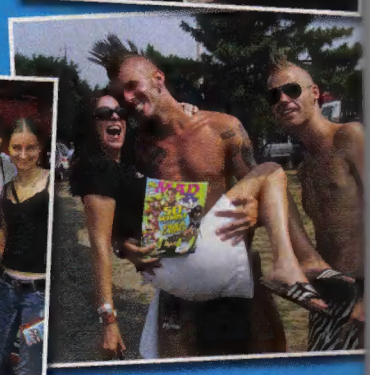


Matt Watts and Tom Gryskiewicz, guitarist and drummer for The Starting Line



Darran Smith and Kris Coombs-Roberts, guitarists for Funeral For A Friend





As we mentioned above, it was a sweltering day in NYC and it's possible we started having heatstroke, because we asked the same two questions of our last band!

Patrick Stump, lead singer and guitarist for Fall Out Boy

QUESTION ONE: What's the one question every journalist asks?

PATRICK: Where did you get your name!

QUESTION TWO: So aren't you glad the interview ended before we could ask it?

PATRICK: (laughs) Absolutely!

Thank you for taking part in MAD's 2-Question Interview!

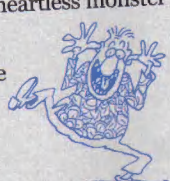
Our last 2-Question interview took place with a nearby guitar amp:

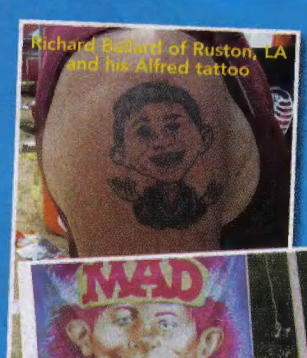
QUESTION ONE: Excuse me, mister, c-c-c-ould you please give us some water?

AMP: Silence

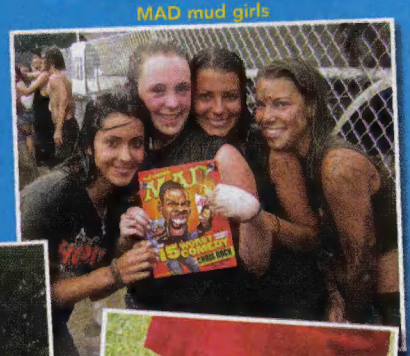
QUESTION TWO: Seriously, everything's fading to black. What kind of heartless monster are you, man?

AMP: Silence





Richard Ballard of Ruston, LA and his Alfred tattoo



MAD mud girls

Giant MAD banner

Steve Sullivan of Phoenix, AZ and his Alfred tattoo

We thank all of the bands for taking the time to participate in MAD's 2-Question Interview! And thanks for nothing, stupid unhelpful guitar amp!

Guarantee: MAD's 2-Question Interviews are genuine and presented verbatim!

Make a Dumb Wish Foundation

I have a request for the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™. All of my friends (yes, although I'm a MAD subscriber, I have friends) in my 8th grade class say I'm obsessed with squirrels. I would like the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™ to officially acknowledge my obsession and print a picture of a squirrel. This would give me top most bragging rights at school — although a teacher will probably take the magazine!

Mariah Emanuel, Jeannette, PA

Manny — We here at the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™ loved your request because it was so very dumb! But we wanted to do more than just grant your wish. So we sent our interns to find out what the squirrels thought of your obsession. Here's what they found! —Ed.

What position would you play on a Supreme Court softball team?
Do you think your decisions would generally tend to favor huge corporations or, rather, large conglomerates?

If confirmed, would you feel awkward being one of only six white men on the high court?
How many different ways did Bush mispronounce your name when you met with him?
Are you related to Julia Roberts?

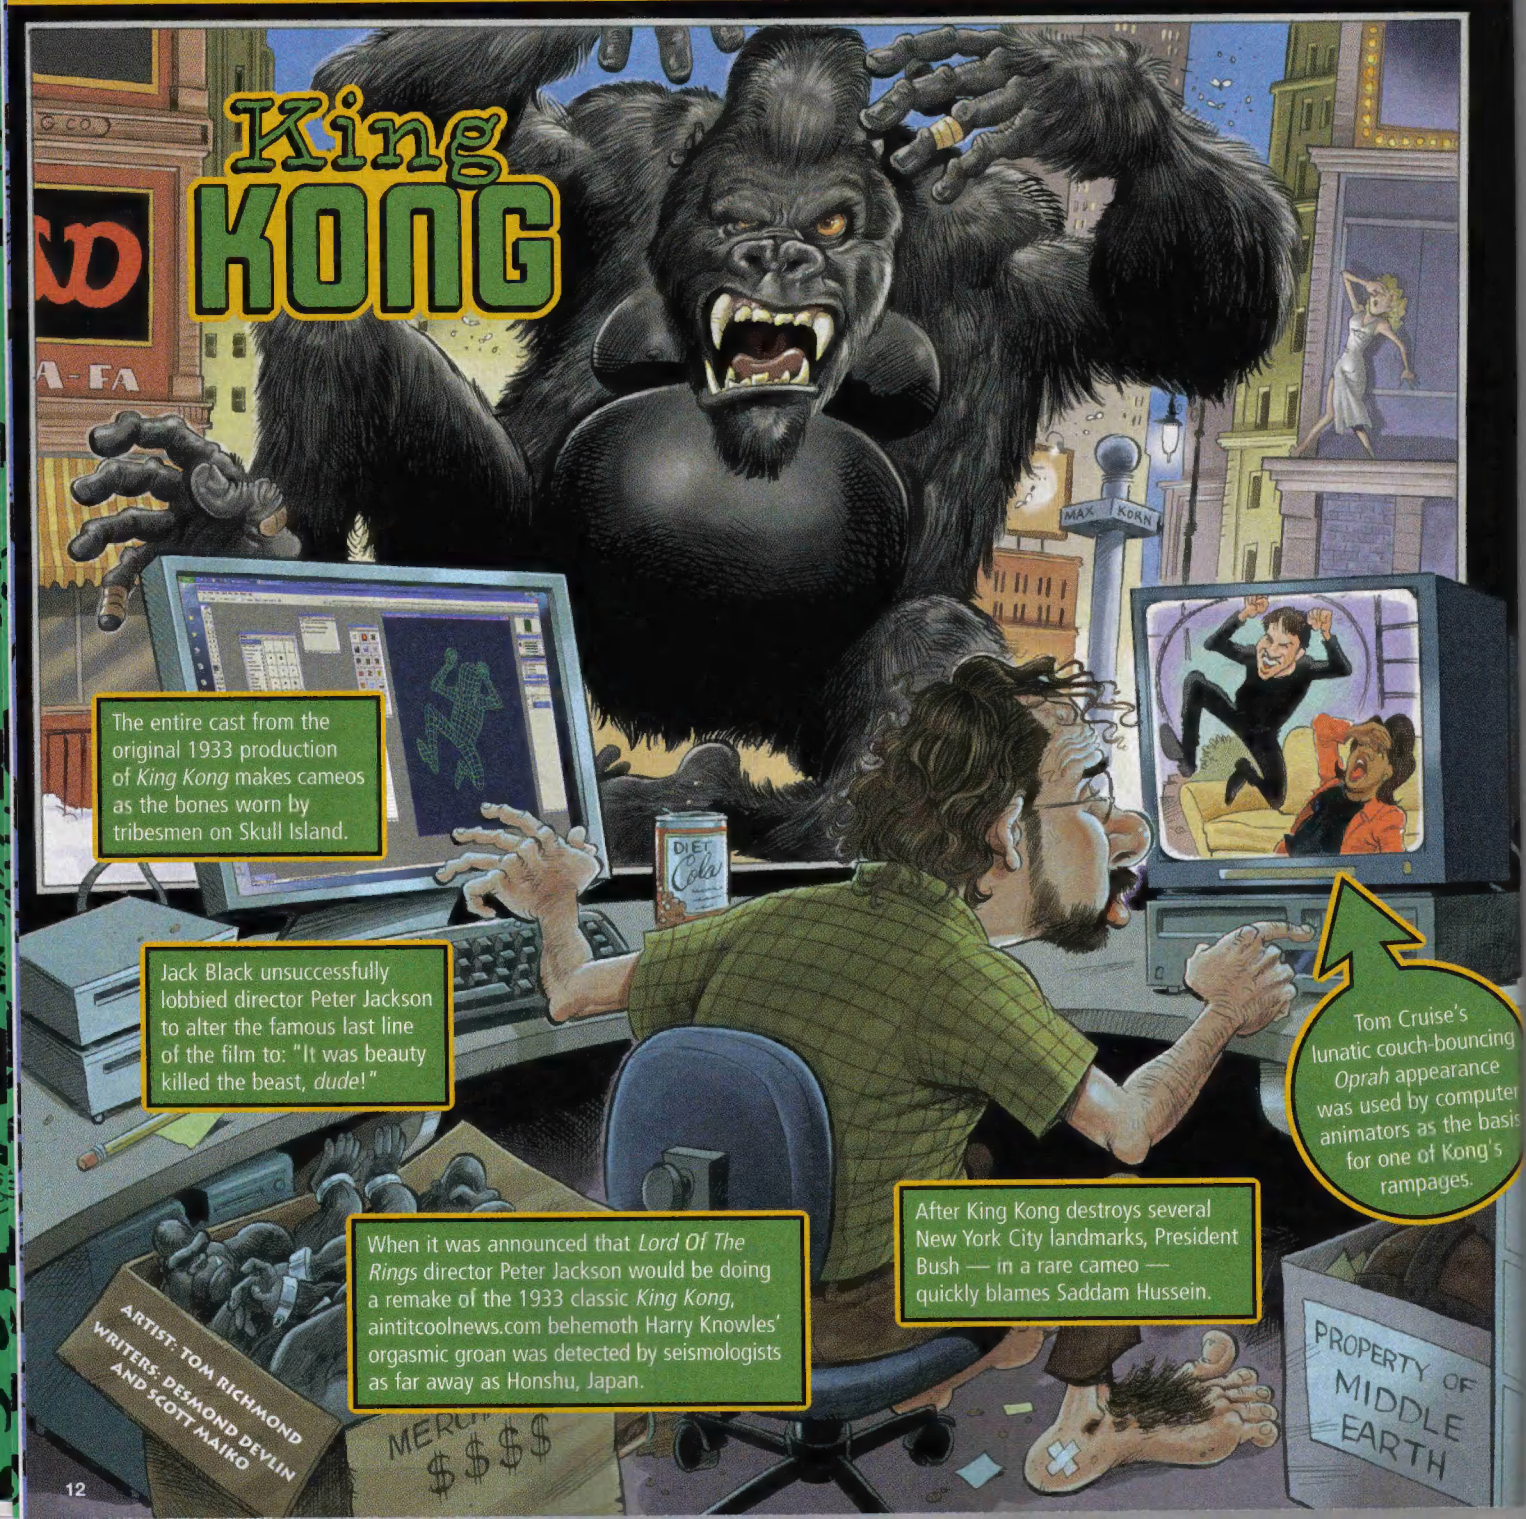
MAD's INSIDE SCOOP ON THIS YEAR'S Stupidest Holiday Movies



King KONG
The entire cast from the original 1933 production of King Kong makes cameos as the bones worn by tribesmen on Skull Island.
Jack Black unsuccessfully lobbied director Peter Jackson to alter the famous last line of the film to: "It was beauty killed the beast, dude!"
When it was announced that Lord Of The Rings director Peter Jackson would be doing a remake of the 1933 classic King Kong, aintitcoolnews.com behemoth Harry Knowles' orgasmic groan was detected by seismologists as far away as Honshu, Japan.
After King Kong destroys several New York City landmarks, President Bush — in a rare cameo — quickly blames Saddam Hussein.
Tom Cruise's lunatic couch-bouncing Oprah appearance was used by computer animators as the basis for one of Kong's rampages.

Harry Potter and the GOBLET OF FIRE

In order to adapt the 734-page book into a workable film script, the producers had to carefully decide which scenes could not be made into toys or video games, and were thus not integral to the story and could be easily omitted.

To save time in make-up, Daniel Radcliffe agreed to let the famous lightning bolt scar be permanently seared into his forehead with a red hot linoleum knife, having made peace with the notion that he will never be known for anything other than his role as boy wizard anyway.

Contract negotiations for the return of the entire main cast went particularly well once it was brought to the actors' attention that between continuing advances in CGI technology and the ease with which the late Richard Harris was replaced, everyone is expendable.

The only previous on-screen performer to have a "Goblet of Fire" was Jenna Jameson, but penicillin cleared that up.

Industry buzz is that Goblet Of Fire is a shoo-in to win the brand new Oscar category for 2006, "Best Motion Picture Featuring Kids Who Are Forced to Stick Together as They Battle Unexpected Perils in a Strange Land."

The RINGER

To prepare for his role, Johnny Knoxville spent 1971-2005 living as a retarded man.

BIG RACE TODAY

Johnny Knoxville grew so fond of his Special Olympics athlete co-stars that at the end of production, he actually felt bad when he said "We'll keep in touch," knowing that he had no intention of doing so.

When a call was issued for extras, the casting directors were surprised and thrilled to have over 20,000 mentally challenged people show up — until they realized they were there for the NASCAR event at the stadium next door.

Johnny Knoxville's previous film roles include a dumbass two-headed alien, an inbred hick and an idiot hitman. That's why he jumped at the chance to "stretch" his acting chops with his latest role as a mentally-challenged adult.

Producers Bobby and Peter Farrelly have now poked fun at the mentally challenged, the physically disabled, conjoined twins, albinos, amputees, Amish people, fat women, blind children and Red Sox fans — which means the only remaining easy targets are Holocaust victims and bedwetters.

The Chronicles of Narnia
THE LION, THE WITCH AND THE WARDROBE

A severely confused Vin Diesel showed up on the set every day for the first four weeks of filming until producers managed to convince him that The Chronicles of Narnia was not a sequel to The Chronicles of Riddick.

To keep the production veiled in a shroud of secrecy and not arouse any interest from overzealous film fans and internet spies, while being shot, the movie went by the fake working title The Cat in The Hat.

In an inspired bit of product placement, the famous wardrobe used in the film is the Kløzhoalder storage unit, available at IKEA for $59.

Director Andrew Adamson decided to go with a cast of unknowns for this film because he felt "the source material is the star" and "I blew almost my entire budget on a talking lion."

Industry buzz is that Narnia is a shoo-in to win the brand new Oscar category for 2006, "Best Motion Picture Featuring Kids Who Are Forced to Stick Together as They Battle Unexpected Perils in a Strange Land."

Get Rich or DIE TRYIN'

50 Cent has said that he wanted this film to be a tribute to "those wonderful screwball comedies of the '30s and '40s as well as big budget musicals from Hollywood's golden era that I fell in love with as a child."

The film was originally to be released in 3-D, but producers changed their minds when it was thought that audiences might become confused by the real bullets that will likely be flying around in theatres during showings.

50 Cent decided the time was right for him to star in a movie about his own life, fearing that he could be shot dead at any time and some wanksta like Nick Cannon might end up playing him in a biopic.

In this, his first major movie role, 50 Cent had trouble remembering his lines. To jog his memory, he had them tattooed on his co-stars.

Stick around after the credits for a hilarious outtake of 50 Cent and his posse beating a hapless production assistant to within an inch of his life.

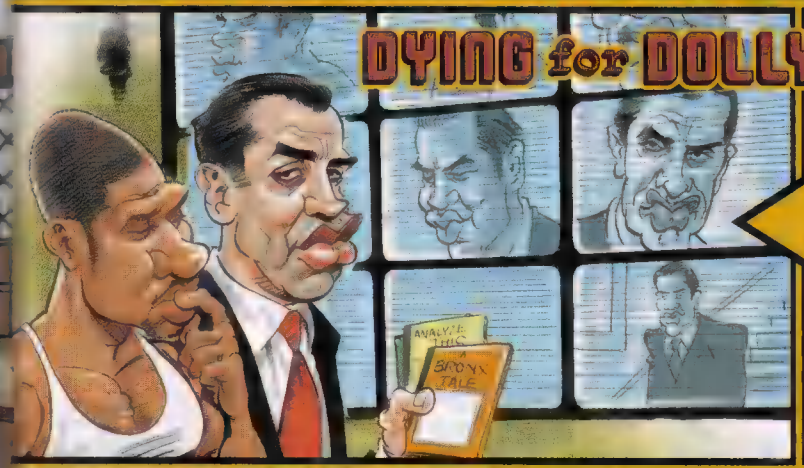
CHICKEN LITTLE

For each frame of film she appears in, every one of the 20,000+ hairs covering Foxy Loxy's body had to be digitally rendered individually. Conversely, only one in out every 20,000+ people will find this piece of trivia interesting, since Disney has issued a variation on the same dull factoid for every computer animation movie they've released since Toy Story.

Disney wisely rethought a Chicken Little promotion with KFC, fearing that children might think the title character was being cooked in the chicken restaurant's deep fryers. Instead, they opted for McDonald's, whose signature McNuggets are unrecognizable as chicken in look, texture and taste.

The animators based Chicken Little's sense of helpless panic on what they witnessed walking through the studio hallways the day Disney's deal with Pixar ran out.

DYING for DOLLY



While Usher's tattoos have been digitally concealed throughout the film, a team of special effects experts were unable to similarly conceal his inability to act.

In order to research his role as a mob boss, Chazz Palminteri watched all his other films where he plays a mob boss.

Director Ron Underwood's other recent projects were the Vegas gangster biopic Stealing Sinatra and the mobsters-in-space fiasco The Adventures of Pluto Nash. Since 2002, Underwood's inflicted more damage on the Mafia than the U.S. Justice Department.

AEON FLUX

Though Charlize Theron suffered a severe neck injury while performing a complicated stunt, she maintains that the most frightening aspect of doing the film was appearing at science fiction and comic book conventions promoting it.

Fans of the original series may complain that Aeon Flux now wears a more modest outfit than her animated counterpart's black leather straps and boots, but producers insist the change wasn't made to avoid an NC-17 rating — they claim the new costume is based solely on a sense of decency towards everyone who'll have to see all the fat Goth chicks wearing it come next Halloween.

The film takes place 400 years from now in a disturbing future where — judging by Charlize Theron's stringy, greasy locks — civilization has lost the scientific formula for shampoo.

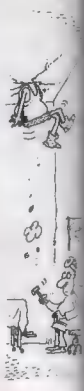
ZATHURA

Industry buzz is that Zathura is a shoo-in to win the brand new Oscar category for 2006, "Best Motion Picture Featuring Kids Who Are Forced to Stick Together as They Battle Unexpected Perils in a Strange Land."

XXX-TRA CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES DEPT.

It seems like every other week there's a story in the news about a female high school teacher having an affair with one of her male students. What's wrong with these women? Where are their morals? And where were they when WE were in high school, pimply, drooling and desperate? But enough questions. For high school lads treading the tricky, turbulent waters of teenager-teacher trysts, here are some answers in the form of...

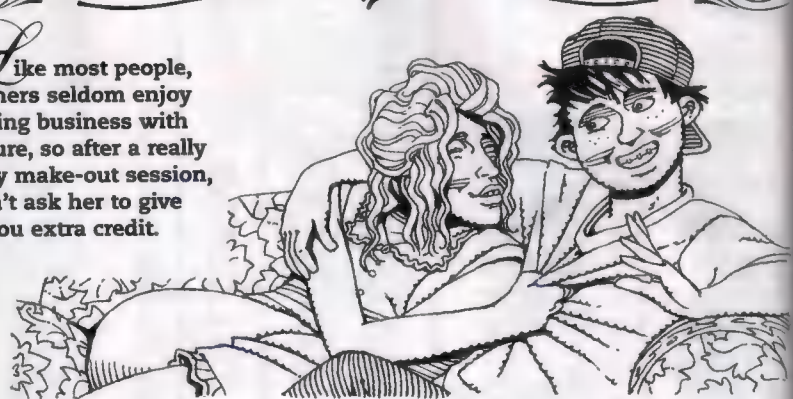
THE HIGH SCHOOL GENTLEMAN'S Etiquette Guide FOR Dating Your Teacher



ARTIST: RICK GEARY
WRITER: DENNIS SNEE

When going to the movies, the gentleman always pays for his date, especially if he can use a student discount.

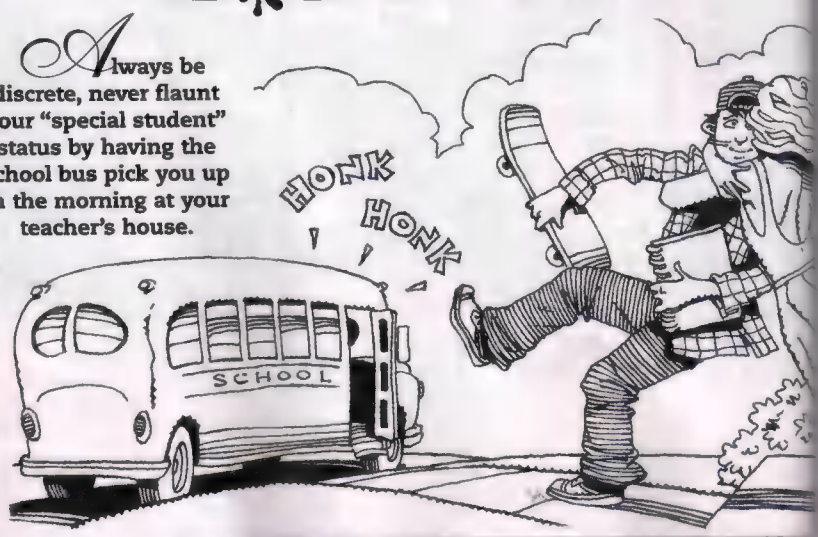
Like most people, teachers seldom enjoy mixing business with pleasure, so after a really steamy make-out session, don't ask her to give you extra credit.



"Todd, you are such a good kisser..."

"Thanks — any chance I could get credit for what we just did in our 'Modern Communications' class...?"

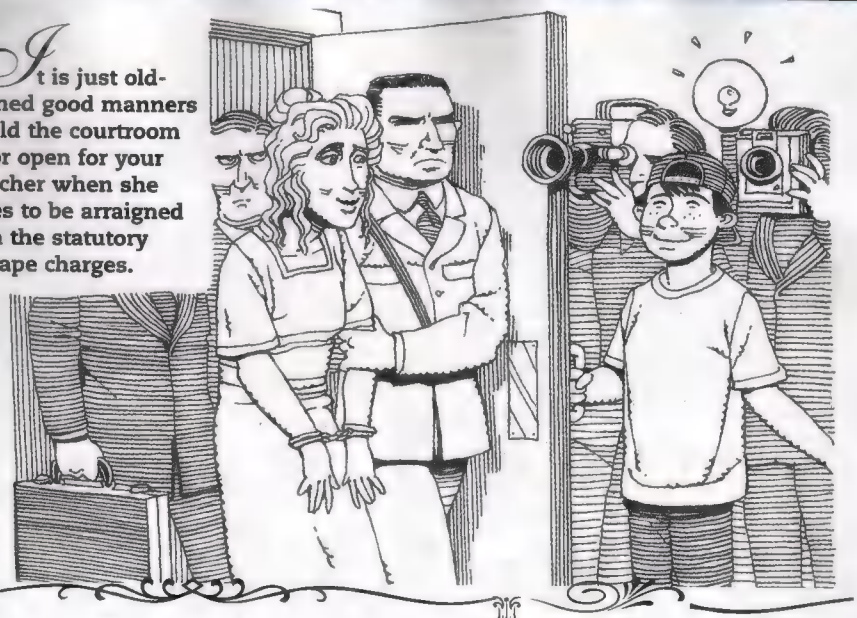
Always be discrete, never flaunt your "special student" status by having the school bus pick you up in the morning at your teacher's house.



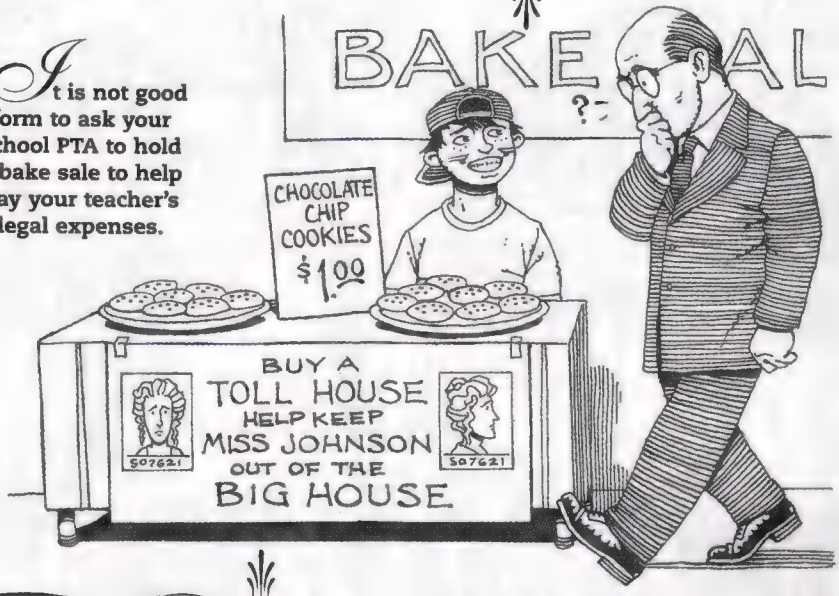
It is perfectly acceptable to ask your teacher for an extension on your book report if your deadline was missed because you went away together for the weekend.

"Take all the time you want, Todd. And if you need help, you know where I live, hee-hee!"

It is just old-fashioned good manners to hold the courtroom door open for your teacher when she arrives to be arraigned on the statutory rape charges.



It is not good form to ask your school PTA to hold a bake sale to help pay your teacher's legal expenses.



While it's perfectly appropriate for you to ask your teacher to write a letter of recommendation for colleges, discourage her from citing your personal qualities, such as, "Todd would make an excellent roommate because he doesn't snore."

While your teacher is "away" as a result of your affair, it is considerate to send her letters—but it would be imposing to include papers for her to proofread or critique in her "spare time."

If I got a tattoo, it would have to be something I really knew I was going to care about forever, like Natalie Portman.

[19 October|07:54pm]

I've got a social studies test tomorrow that I have to study for. My social studies textbook is hard to read because it's all about how important it is to participate in democracy and be proud of your country, but it's really old — like, from the '70s — and it's been illustrated with

November 2, 1976. Jimmy Carter's supporters

These are the worst spokespeople for voting ever. As my friend Darren put it, "It looks like the people of Doucheville are getting a new mayor."

[20 October|04:03pm]

[mood| psyched]

A while ago, Chet and Darren and I started playing poker at lunch, using all the tricks we've learned from watching Celebrity Poker Showdown. (I'm kind of a Erik Estrada-type player. Chet's more of a Jason Alexander. Darren said he was a Bonnie Hunt-type player, but then we started calling him "Bonnie" and he denied he'd ever said it.) We don't play for money or anything — just for packets of ketchup and mustard. We used to just play for ketchup, but then we started playing "no-limits" and so we decided that mustard packets are worth five ketchup packets. But lately Chet's been betting big, and we're thinking of making relish worth five mustards.

Anyway, Billy Otis, who's a senior, came over and watched for a few minutes. He said that we're all really good players, and that we should come to the game he hosts with his friends every Friday night in his basement. So we're going to get a chance to play for real. I'm pretty psyched, because I generally tend to clean up with the ketchup packets, and I figure if I do well tomorrow, I can take the $50 I've been saving for the new Madden game for my PS2 and turn it into enough to buy an Xbox 360, Game Boy Micro AND the new Madden game.

[mood| totally bummed]

Still too depressed to blog. But if you want to buy a PlayStation 2 on eBay, there's one for sale here.

Also, there's a bunch of PlayStation games for sale here.

Also, a whole lot of near-mint-condition comic books for sale here.

And a bike here.

Please help. I need to make $300 by Friday.

[25 October|03:49pm]

Does anyone know how to mail a bike?

HERE'S YOUR PACK BACK.
SECURITY CHECK
JAWOHL, MEIN GESTAPO MENSCHEN.
COME ON, MAN—THEY'RE SEARCHING OUR LOCKERS!
BRITNEY SUCKS

CAN THEY DO THAT? WHAT ABOUT OUR PRIVACY?
THEY CAN. THE SUPREME COURT HAS RULED THAT SCHOOLS CAN SEARCH LOCKERS WITHOUT A WARRANT.

BUT NEVER MIND THAT. YOU CAN'T WEAR THAT T-SHIRT IN SCHOOL. GO CHANGE.

SAYS WHO?!
SAYS THE U.S. SUPREME COURT. IN "TINKER V. DES MOINES" (1969) THEY RULED THAT "DISRUPTIVE" CLOTHES CAN BE BANNED.
BRITNEY SUCKS

A 2003 DECISION GRANTED AN EXCEPTION FOR "POLITICAL EXPRESSION," BUT "BRITNEY SUCKS" DOESN'T QUALIFY. TAKE IT OFF.

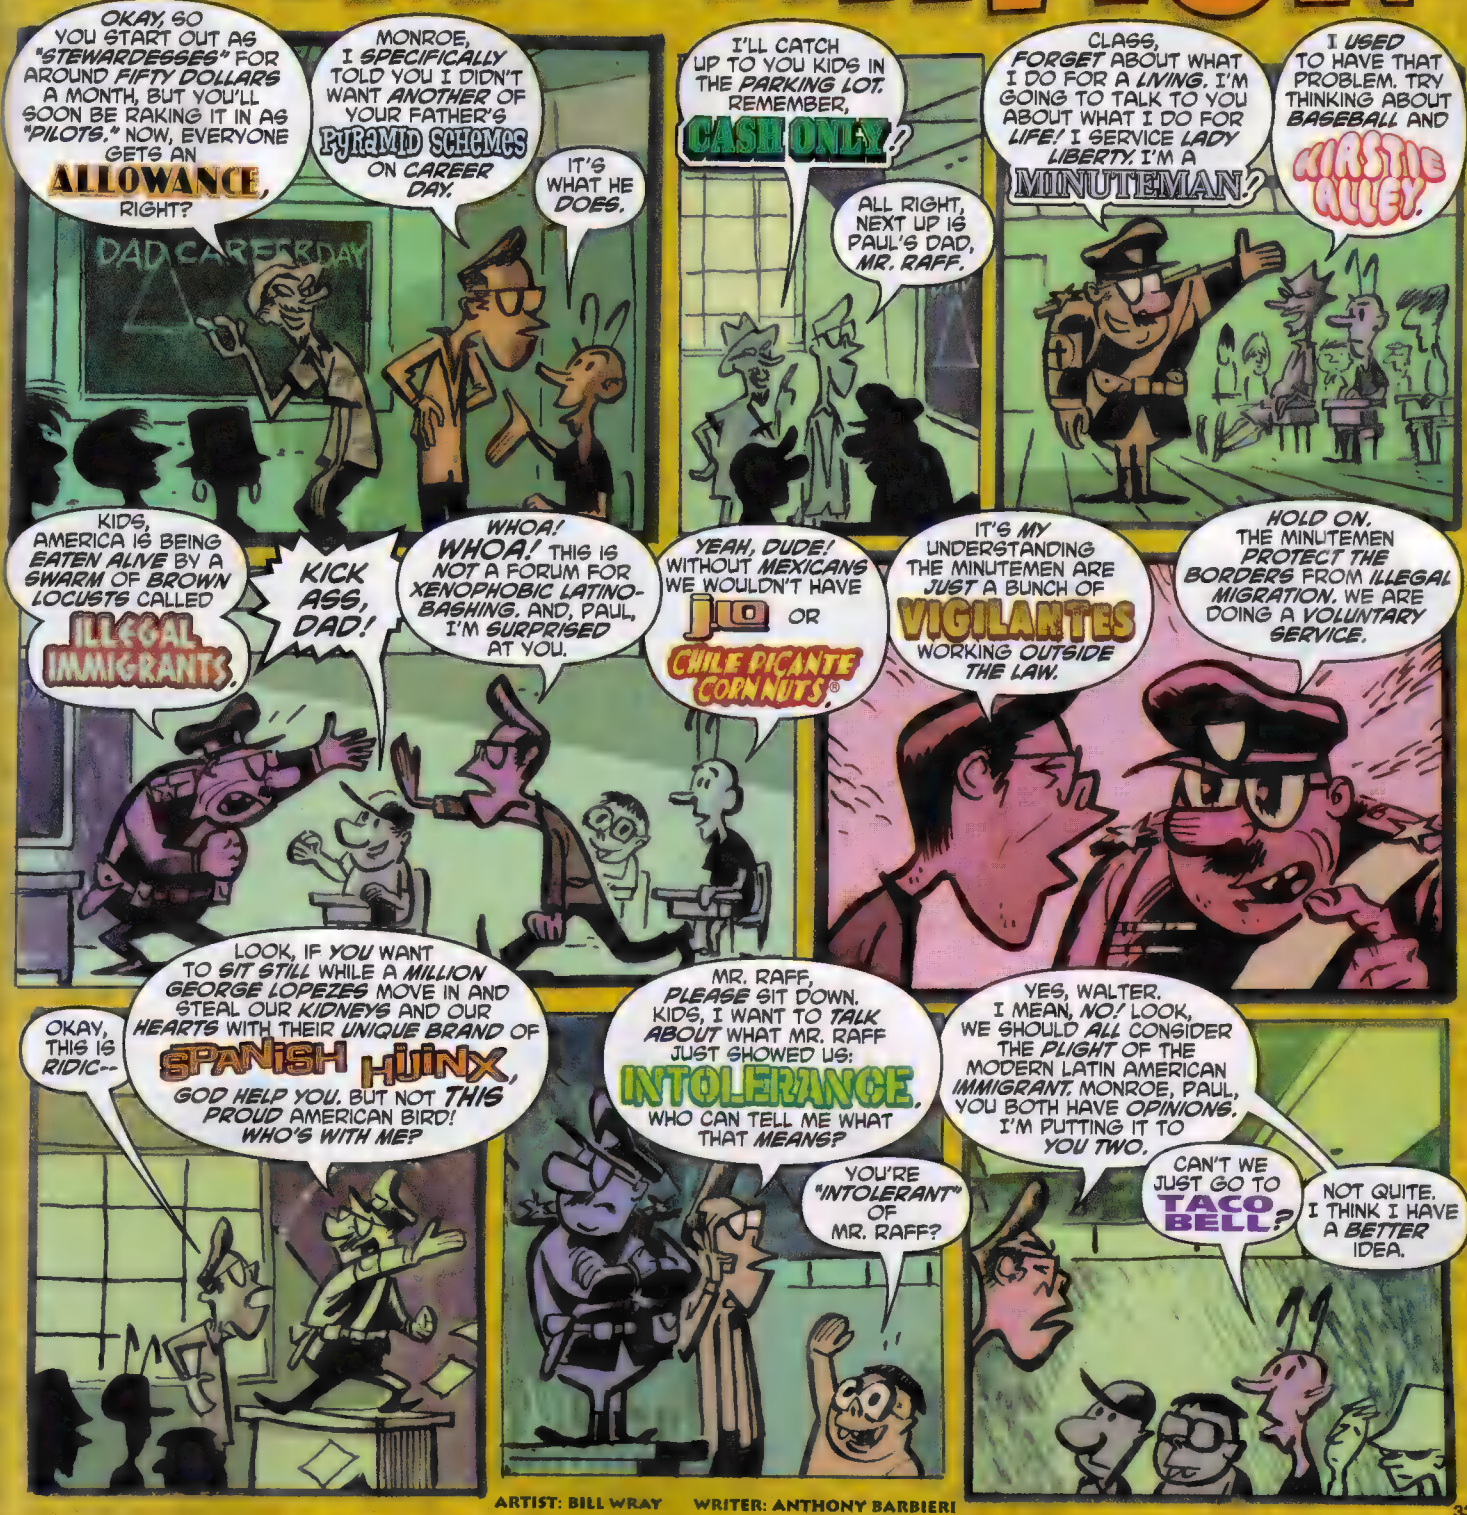
BEHOLD: "POLITICAL EXPRESSION," YES?
YES. GET LOST AND GOD BLESS AMERICA.
YOU CAN'T SAY "GOD" IN SCHOOL, DUDE!
SEARCHED
BUSH SUCKS

Forget giving your tired, poor and huddled masses. How about giving the kid a break? It's...

MONROE and... IMMIGRATION



OKAY, SO YOU START OUT AS "STEWARDESSES" FOR AROUND FIFTY DOLLARS A MONTH, BUT YOU'LL SOON BE RAKING IT IN AS "PILOTS." NOW, EVERYONE GETS AN ALLOWANCE, RIGHT?
MONROE, I SPECIFICALLY TOLD YOU I DIDN'T WANT ANOTHER OF YOUR FATHER'S PYRAMID SCHEMES ON CAREER DAY.
IT'S WHAT HE DOES.
DAD CAREER DAY
I'LL CATCH UP TO YOU KIDS IN THE PARKING LOT. REMEMBER, CASH ONLY!
ALL RIGHT, NEXT UP IS PAUL'S DAD, MR. RAFF.
CLASS, FORGET ABOUT WHAT I DO FOR A LIVING. I'M GOING TO TALK TO YOU ABOUT WHAT I DO FOR LIFE! I SERVICE LADY LIBERTY. I'M A MINUTEMAN!
I USED TO HAVE THAT PROBLEM. TRY THINKING ABOUT BASEBALL AND KIRSTIE ALLEY.
KIDS, AMERICA IS BEING EATEN ALIVE BY A SWARM OF BROWN LOCUSTS CALLED ILLEGAL IMMIGRANTS.
KICK ASS, DAD!
WHOA! WHOA! THIS IS NOT A FORUM FOR XENOPHOBIC LATINO-BASHING. AND, PAUL, I'M SURPRISED AT YOU.
YEAH, DUDE! WITHOUT MEXICANS WE WOULDN'T HAVE JLO OR CHILE PICANTE CORN NUTS®.
IT'S MY UNDERSTANDING THE MINUTEMEN ARE JUST A BUNCH OF VIGILANTES WORKING OUTSIDE THE LAW.
HOLD ON. THE MINUTEMEN PROTECT THE BORDERS FROM ILLEGAL MIGRATION. WE ARE DOING A VOLUNTARY SERVICE.
OKAY, THIS IS RIDIC--
LOOK, IF YOU WANT TO SIT STILL WHILE A MILLION GEORGE LOPEZES MOVE IN AND STEAL OUR KIDNEYS AND OUR HEARTS WITH THEIR UNIQUE BRAND OF SPANISH HIJINX, GOD HELP YOU. BUT NOT THIS PROUD AMERICAN BIRD! WHO'S WITH ME?
MR. RAFF, PLEASE SIT DOWN. KIDS, I WANT TO TALK ABOUT WHAT MR. RAFF JUST SHOWED US: INTOLERANCE. WHO CAN TELL ME WHAT THAT MEANS?
YOU'RE "INTOLERANT" OF MR. RAFF?
YES, WALTER. I MEAN, NO! LOOK, WE SHOULD ALL CONSIDER THE PLIGHT OF THE MODERN LATIN AMERICAN IMMIGRANT. MONROE, PAUL, YOU BOTH HAVE OPINIONS. I'M PUTTING IT TO YOU TWO.
CAN'T WE JUST GO TO TACO BELL?
NOT QUITE. I THINK I HAVE A BETTER IDEA.

COME ON, SON. I CAN'T STAND TO SEE THOSE PEOPLE STEAL AMERICAN WORK. LET'S GET LUNCH.
AMIGO, CAN I ASK YOU A FEW QUESTIONS FOR MY REPORT? IS IT TRUE YOU GUYS CAN'T FIND ANY GOOD JOBS?

ROTTEN MEET DEPT.

Sure, online dating is popular. But how can you be sure that the delightful person you've been I.M.ing with for the past three months isn't a deranged lunatic who will tear out your throat and jump rope with your intestines the first time you meet them? It's not easy. The best you can do is be on the lookout for subtle signs of potential trouble before your first encounter. For instance, the signs mentioned in...

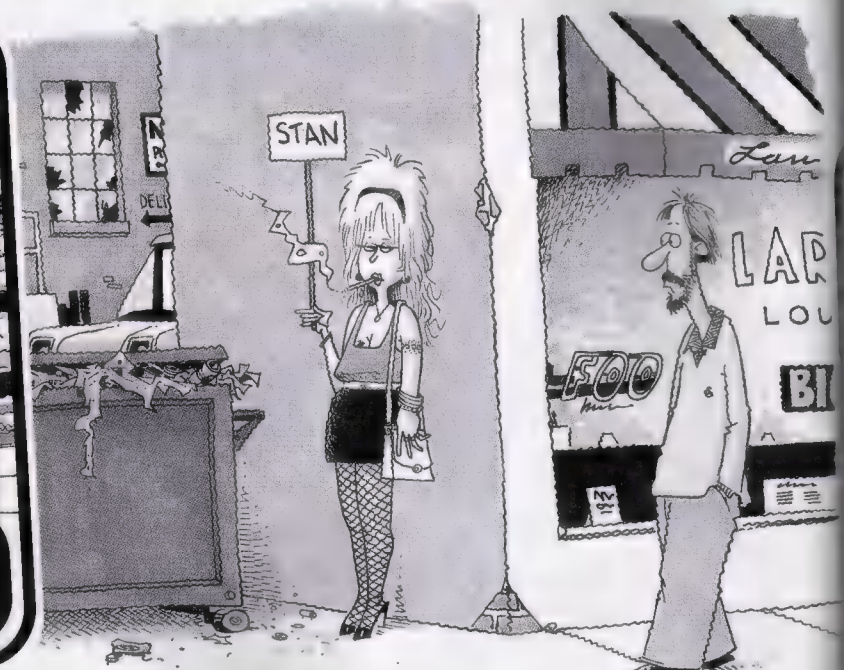
JOHN CALDWELL'S

YOU MAY WANT TO CALL OFF THE "FACE TO FACE" IF...

...Her instructions are: "Meet me in front of the transgender clinic. I'll be the tall blonde with the nice rack and five o'clock shadow."

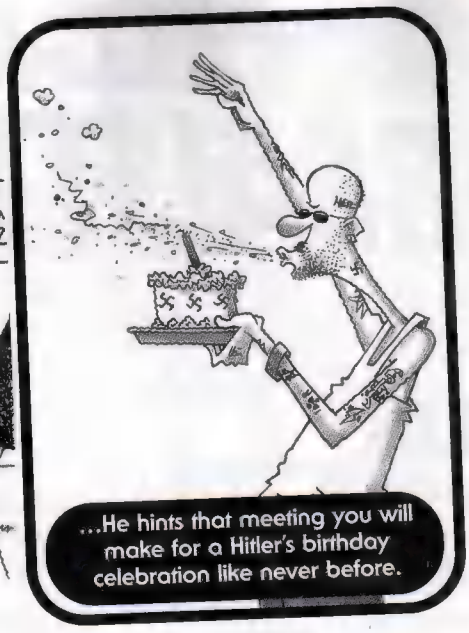
... He advises you to bring your appetite since he is slaughtering something special for the occasion.

... He lets you know he won't have any trouble recognizing you, what with all the night vision photographs he's been shooting from the roof of the building across the street.

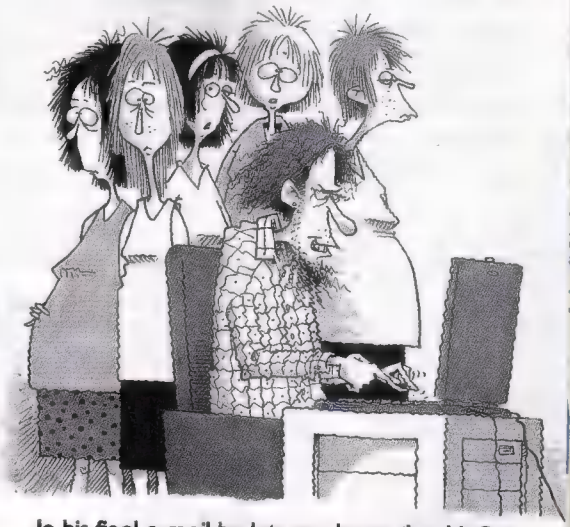


...She suggests you meet by the dumpster behind the Radio Shack and not the one at the bus station as she's not one to mix business with pleasure.

...How will you be able to find him in a crowd? His answer is, "Just follow the sound of the accordion."

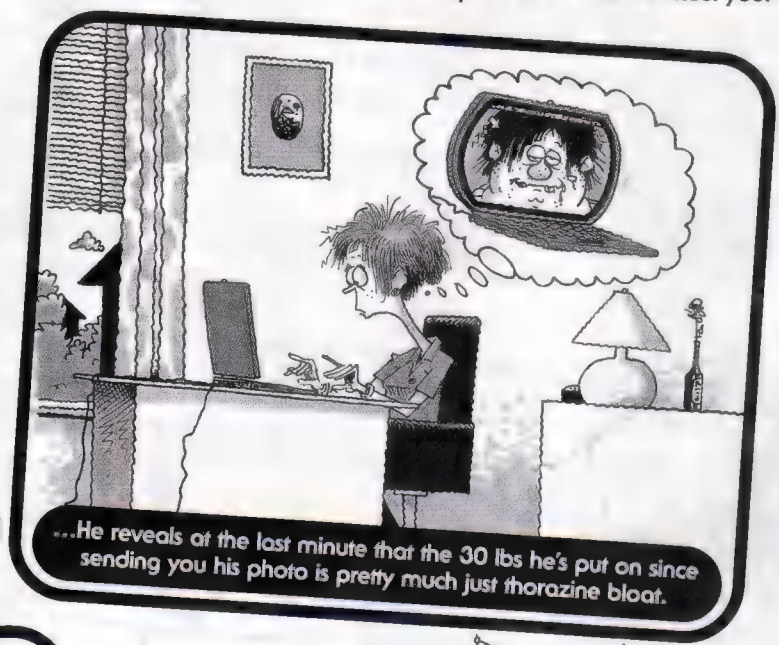


...He hints that meeting you will make for a Hitler's birthday celebration like never before.



...In his final e-mail he lets you know that his five wives at the compound can't wait to meet you.

... She lets you know that this is her first date in quite a while that wasn't technically labeled a conjugal visit.



...He reveals at the last minute that the 30 lbs he's put on since sending you his photo is pretty much just thorazine bloat.

...Out of the blue he asks if you've ever done it on a Lionel scale model of the freight yards outside Mooney, Iowa before.

...He tells you that he'll stand out from the other Elvis impersonators because of the sequined eye patch.

We've got six lifeless bodies.
I only count four.
It's six if we're including Mook and Smella!
Look Smella, the body still has goose bumps. It was frozen before he died! From the centimeter of the goose bump I'd say he was sitting with the audience in the Ed Sullivan Theatre at 6:15 watching The Late Show with David Letterman. The mustard smear on his chin is from Zabar's on 81st!

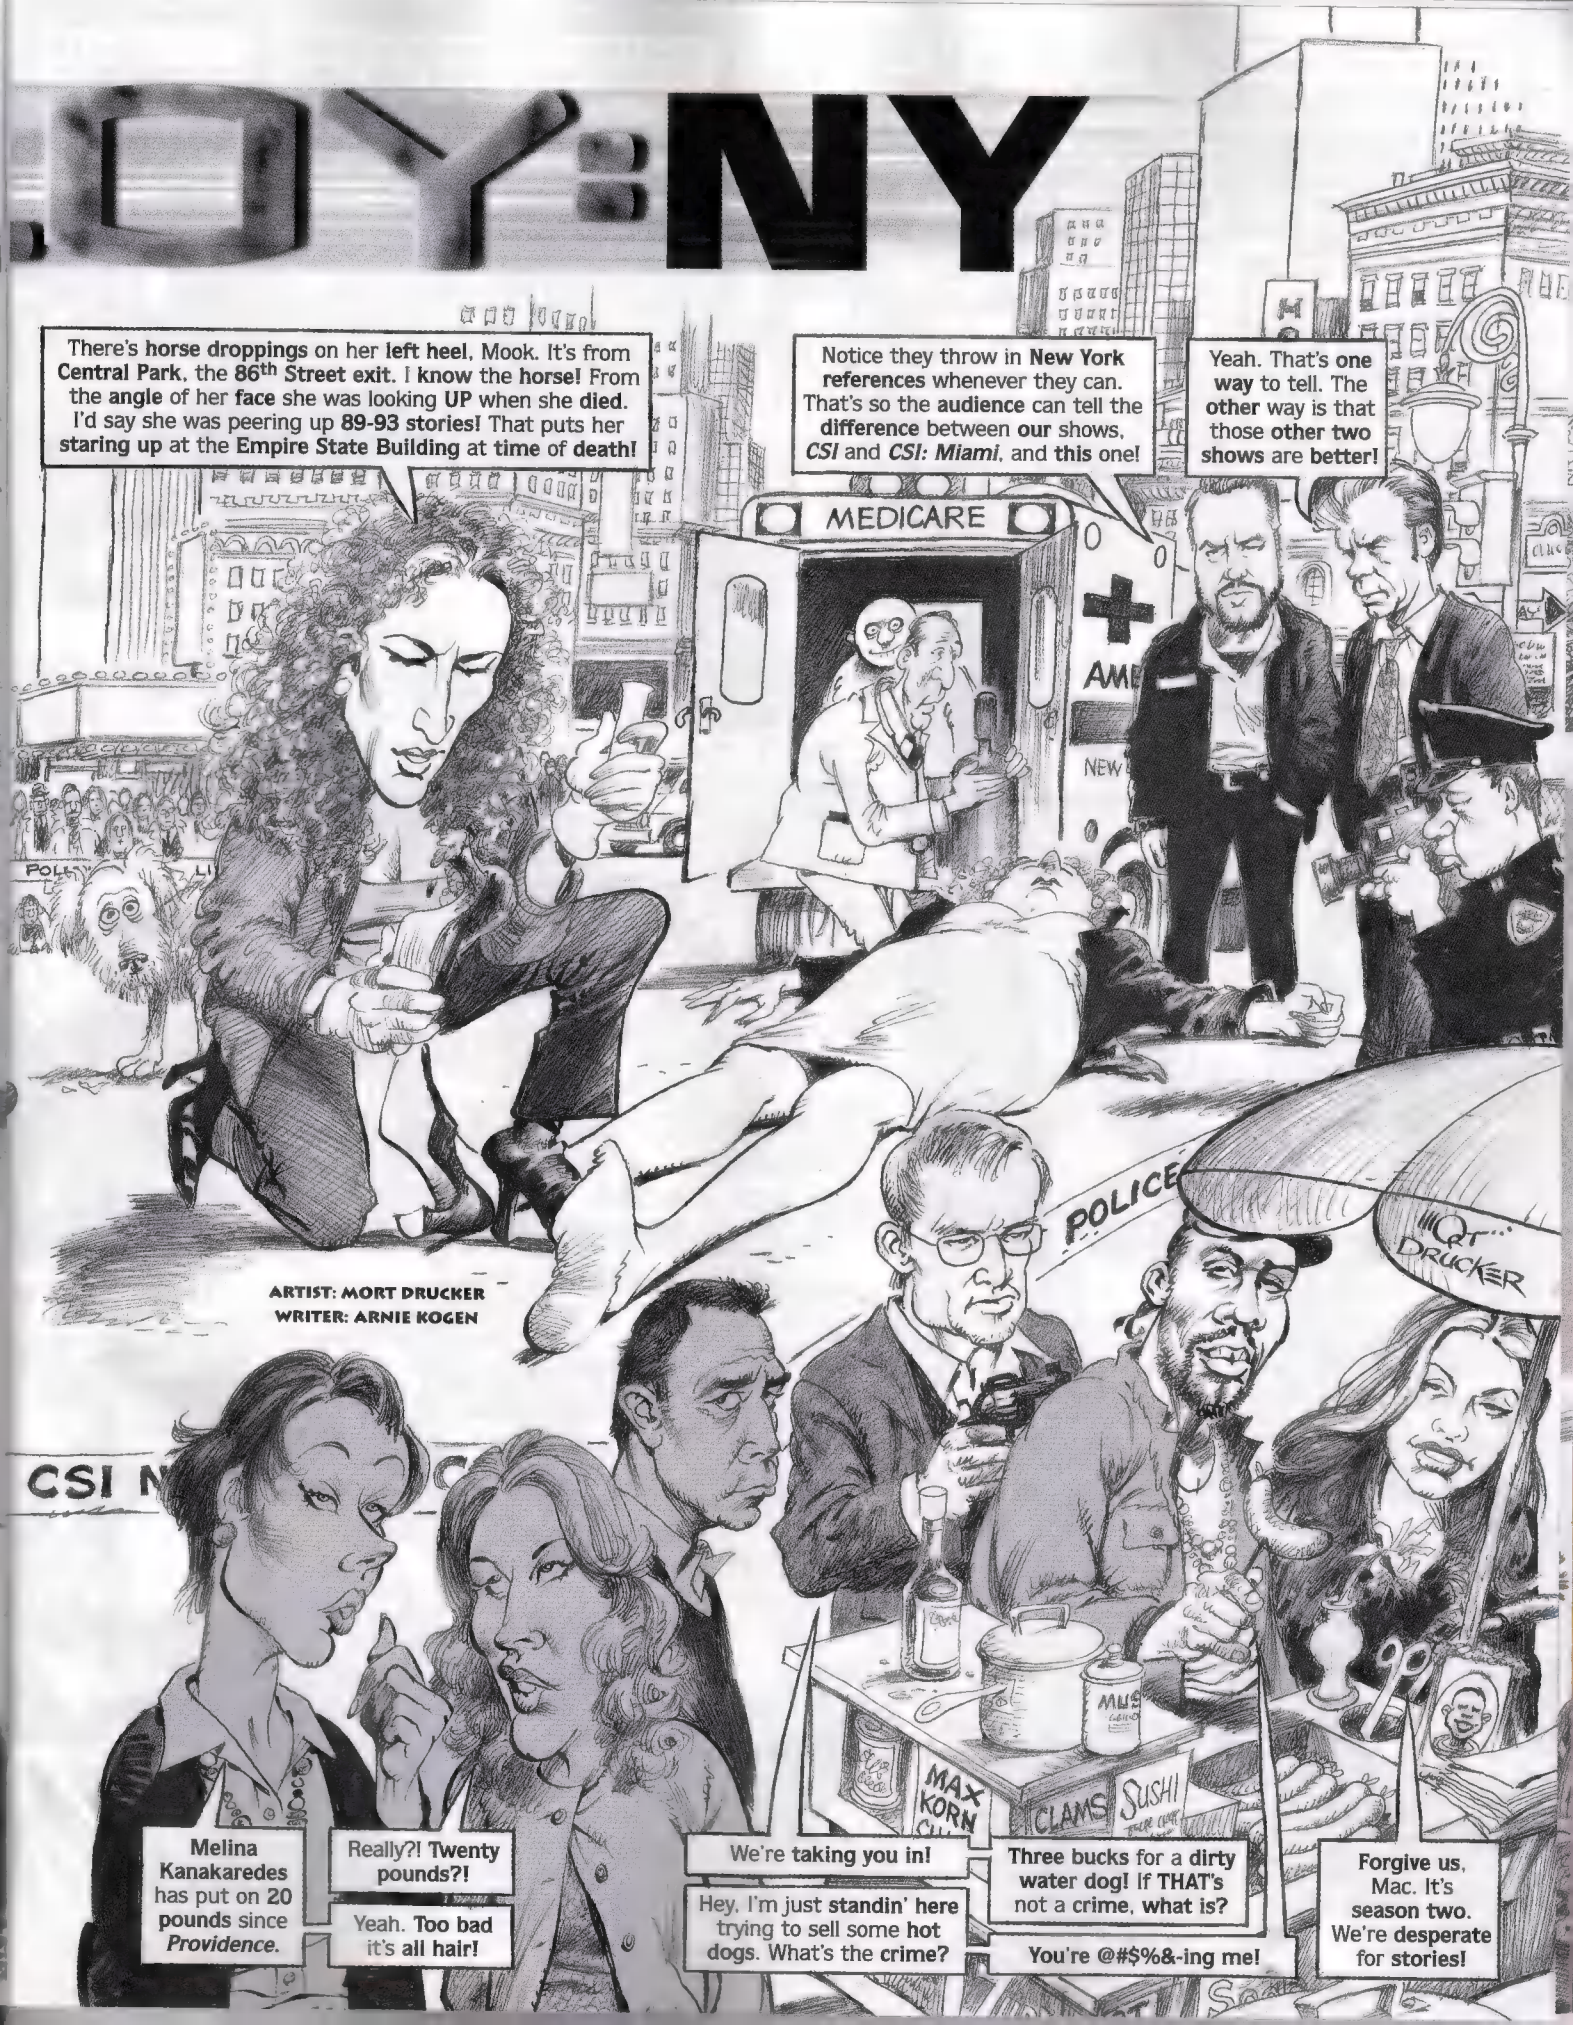
It's cool working forensics here. New York is the city that never sleeps.
Unfortunately, the same can't be said for our audience!
How does this compare to the other CSI shows?
This is the Matrix Revolutions of forensic shows!
So, what's the story with Sinise and Kanakaredes? Is there chemistry?
Unfortunately, the only chemistry you'll see in this series involves beakers!

,OY:NY



There's horse droppings on her left heel, Mook. It's from Central Park, the 86th Street exit. I know the horse! From the angle of her face she was looking UP when she died. I'd say she was peering up 89-93 stories! That puts her staring up at the Empire State Building at time of death!
Notice they throw in New York references whenever they can. That's so the audience can tell the difference between our shows, CSI and CSI: Miami, and this one!
Yeah. That's one way to tell. The other way is that those other two shows are better!

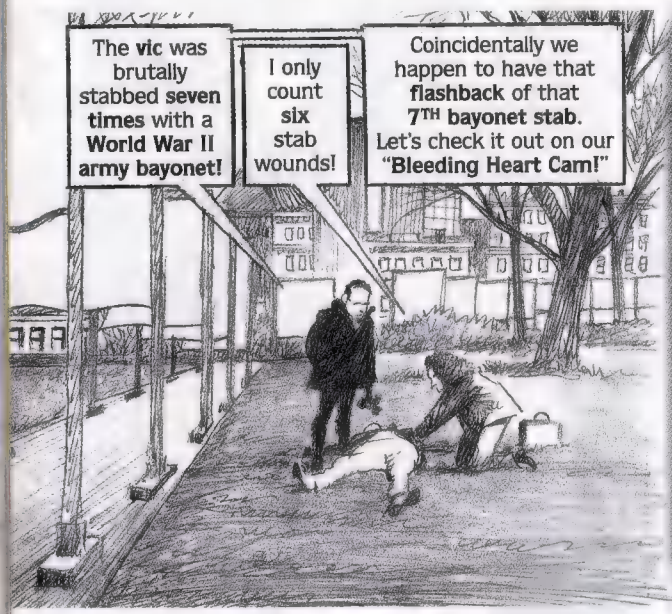
Melina Kanakaredes has put on 20 pounds since Providence.
Really?! Twenty pounds?!
Yeah. Too bad it's all hair!
We're taking you in!
Hey, I'm just standin' here trying to sell some hot dogs. What's the crime?
Three bucks for a dirty water dog! If THAT's not a crime, what is?
You're @#$%&-ing me!
Forgive us, Mac. It's season two. We're desperate for stories!

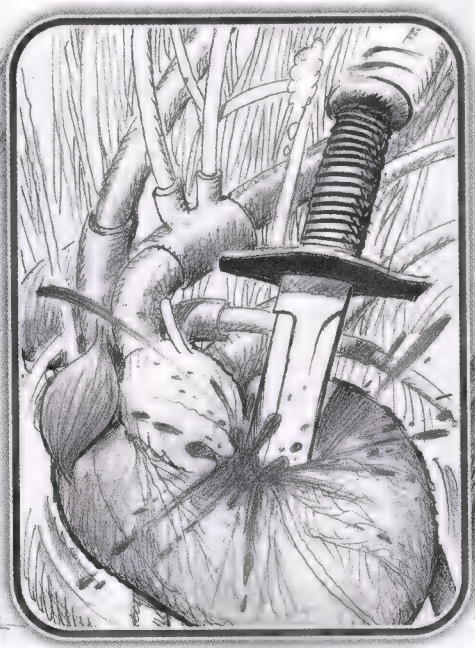
Okay! We are the new C.S.OY kids on the block! Obviously, we're not like those other two C.S.OY shows since we don't have the glitz of Vegas nor are we the Sunshine State! We are New York! A gritty metropolis with ■ million unique locations!
Then how come most of this show is filmed in LA?
So were Seinfeld and Friends, two alleged "NYC shows"!
They don't count — they were comedy shows!
And this one isn't?
Here's what we have: another out-of-town couple butchered in Central Park! A salsa dancer was fished out of the Hudson! A Harlem party was crashed by a teen gang from the Hamptons, all wearing tattoos of Ben Stiller! Let's go back to Central Park!
Grisliest case?
Not really. But it is the location that lends itself to the most interesting establishing shots, zoom camera angles and sultry soundtrack music!

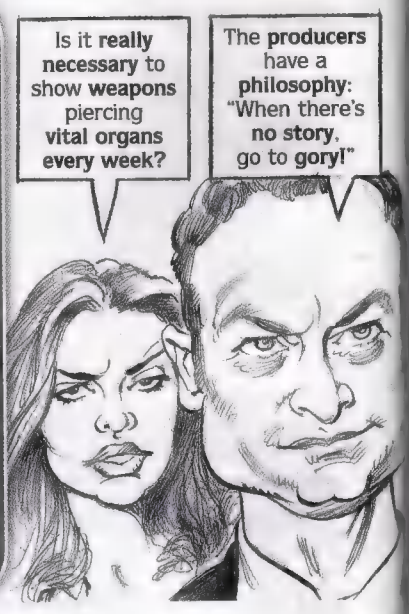
Tell me, Mock, how come you're always so stoic and wooden?
Well, it fits the mold. To head up a Forensic unit you don't exactly want Carrot Top!
Carrot Top? Do you mean that obnoxious clown or David Caruso?
Is there a difference?

We're C.S.OY: NY. What's the delay?
You're third in line! There's a crew from Law and Order: Criminal Intent and one from Cold Case before you!
Good God, it's finally happened! We've reached TV-cop gridlock!
COLD CASE FILES
DO NOT CROSS



The vic was brutally stabbed seven times with a World War II army bayonet!
I only count six stab wounds!
Coincidentally we happen to have that flashback of that 7TH bayonet stab. Let's check it out on our "Bleeding Heart Cam!"





Is it really necessary to show weapons piercing vital organs every week?
The producers have a philosophy: "When there's no story, go to gory!"

POISON IVY
POISON IVY

Uncovered these: a severed hand and a stripper's pastie!
The hand was bitten off by an alligator in the Everglades and the pastie is from a strip club in Vegas! These belong to C.S.OY and C.S.OY: Miami episodes!
It was bound to happen. The C.S.OY franchise is so huge the Prop Departments are getting all confused!
You're the most dedicated forensic investigator I've ever seen.
Thanks. But it's kinda hurt my personal life.
You have a personal life?
I did, once! But I took my tools of the trade with me on my honeymoon! I guess the flashlight, evidence kit and DNA sequencer kind of weirded out my husband.
On this C.S.OY, the show creators promised to explore the emotional side of our characters.
So let's give them a taste and then get back to business! I'll ask you in a kind of buddy-to-buddy way, "So, hey, how ya doin'?"
I'm glad you asked! I'm doing okay for a strong, confident forensic investigator! And yet, I'm fragile emotionally.
Okay, enough Desperate Housewives crap! It's time for a flashback of a bullet going through a major artery!
On this show there are more close-ups of bullets hitting spleens than there are of me!
If you could shed your clothes as quickly as that bullet sheds its casing, the C.S.OY camera would be all over you!
Zoom in on the salsa dancer at the convenience store! Press the enhance button to get a clear, high resolution image of the drifter standing behind him!
Fire up the "Killer Bees of North America" software!
Let's cross all left-handed owners of army bayonets with all dull white males over 50 who live in Peekskill!
We can do all this — and yet we still can't figure out how Netflix works!

Okay, Sullen, what have you come up with?
The victim was 17½. A blade transversed his sub-cutaneous tissue! The heavy bruises under his right knee indicate he was into snowboarding! His nose ring was the kind popular at Avril Lavigne concerts! The puzzled expression on his face indicates he recently viewed a Dakota Fanning movie! Cause of death: he was pummeled over the skull with an iPod playing tracks by Green Day.
Is all this information vital to the case?
Not really! CBS makes us toss in a few semi-cool references in a desperate attempt to grab some younger viewers!
Time to get out of here. We've stayed too long in this scene!
How can you tell?
I saw a dead body yawning!

Bad news, Smella. We have to throw out all the evidence!
All of the evidence is tainted! Your mountain of hair proved to be an evidence-corruption-hazard on every crime scene!
I'm so sorry. When you said to "comb the area," I thought...

I'll be frank! I've seen this C.S.OY team at work. You're not investigators, you're candy asses! You couldn't find Waldo.
